

Mobile Clinic To Serve North

A mobile clinic that flies to isolated spots to provide medical services to Indian communities was in Northern Alberta today to spend several days with Indians before they leave for their winter trapping ground.

The department of national health and welfare announced that appointment of Dr. E. H. J. Smyth as medical superintendent of Indian health service in Alberta made the mobile clinic possible.

Dr. Smyth left yesterday by plane for Fort Chipewyan, about 400 air miles north of Edmonton.

The 35-year-old graduate of the University of London, medical School was with the Royal Army Medical Corps during the war and after his discharge spent a year with the International Grenfell Association in medical work among the natives and fishermen of the Newfoundland and Labrador coasts.

Dr. Smyth and a public health nurse will form a mobile surgical team and will visit such isolated places as Fort Chipewyan, Wabasca, Whitefish Lake and the Indian reserves at Hay Lake and Upper Bay River.

Since his appointment Dr. Smyth spent three weeks at Fort Vermilion making tuberculosis X-rays. More than 600 Indians were X-rayed, some coming from as far as 100 miles to be examined.

On this present plane trip to Fort Chipewyan, Dr. Smyth is accompanied by Dr. H. M. McCaffrey, formerly of Brooks, Alta., and now the dental officer of Indian Health Services in Alberta.

One-Man Fight Against Tax He's Willing to Go to Jail But Officials Fear to Act

VANCOUVER, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Chances of Everett Crowley, 36-year-old dairy manager, seeing the inside of a jail cell appear dim.

He has been starting a one-man fight against a city poll tax for two years, and is willing to go to jail as a martyr.

Crowley has refused to pay a $5 fine for refusal to pay to go to jail.

"I am willing to go to jail," he said. "It is a fight to the finish."

But before he can go to jail the city must take lengthy "distress" proceedings because the fine was levied under a civil bylaw.

It appeared today civil officials had little inclination to follow the necessary legal procedure.

Reveal Development
"Tame" Atomic Bomb

LOS ALAMOS, N.M., Aug. 28.—(CP)—Development of a "tame" atomic bomb, in which the late Dr. Louis Slotin of Winnipeg who was fatally injured later in a radiation accident took a prominent part, was announced today by the atomic energy commission.

The new "bomb" aids research into ways to get useful power from nuclear fission.

Instead of a devastating blast, the toned-down bomb produces a steady output of fast neutrons.

needed for experiments to determine what kind of a chain reaction is best for practical power purposes.

Original design, testing and construction of the reactor were undertaken by a group, including Slotin, who worked with Dr. Philip Morrison, now at Cornell University.

Slotin died in May, 1946, after he had seen fellow physicists from possible death in a laboratory test connected with a different project.

The new development consists of a new type of chain reaction plant or "pile" utilizing high-energy neutrons for atomic fission of plutonium. The commission's announcement described it as in a sense "a controlled version of the atomic bomb itself."

"Fast" neutrons are produced in the explosion of an atomic bomb, but physicists had only a limited opportunity to study these high-speed nuclear bullets during the New Mexico bomb explosion.

Slotin, 36, was engaged in a laboratory test at the atomic research center here at the time of his death. Last January John Hersey, who wrote a prize-winning report on the atomic bombing of Hiroshima, told how the Winnipeg scientist gave his life for his co-workers.

"Dr. Slotin meted that the atomic pile was reacting faster than anticipated," Hersey said. "Without hesitating and without regard for his own safety, Dr. Slotin plunged his hands into the pile."

Slotin died nine days after the accident, still keeping his wartime activities secret from his family.

the day. Police immediately threw a cordon around the area and pressed every resource into the grim game of hide-and-seek.

MEANWHILE at Vancouver, a coroner's jury returned a verdict of "suicide by an unknown male" after a five-minute inquiry into the slaying. The Canadian Bankers Association has posted a reward of $5,000 for the arrest and conviction of the slayer.

No police evidence was presented but one witness, accountant Robert E. Snowden, said Mr. Petrie apparently had not known for some minutes that he had been shot in the abdomen.

Snowden said he asked the manager after the bandit had fired a single shot, whether he had been hit.

"No, I don't think so," Mr. Petrie replied as he started toward the vault for a revolver with which to pursue the gunman. He died in hospital an hour later.

STUNG TO DEATH

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Six-year-old Dilly Puller was stung to death by insects which attacked him about the head and body yesterday. The youngster's uncle said Dilly and his mother were looking for a hen's nest in the rear of their country home near here and stirred up the insects, which he said probably were hornets, bees or some insect akin to them.

Toronto Ulster Out of Playoffs

MONTREAL, Aug. 28.—(CP)—President Ben Walker of the Dominion Football Association gave the big host to Toronto Ulster Thursday and ruled the Canadian champions could no longer continue their 1947 playoff trail in defiance of their title.

Walker's return behind his ruling was the playing of ineligible Johnny Marshall in the third game against Montreal last Saturday and Sunday and the decision placed Carleton against Winnipeg Scottish in Winnipeg in the next round of the championship playoffs, the winner meeting Vancouver in the final.

The ruling was expected to come up at next week's meeting of the Dominion Association annual meeting here next week.

Workers

with the jobs available. Geographical dislocation in a country the size of Canada is one great obstacle while industries in Ontario and Quebec need workers desperately, a surplus of labor still exists in the Maritime and Pacific regions.

IN THE MARITIMES, there were 15,000 unplaced applicants and 6,000 unfilled vacancies Aug. 14. The labor surplus declined during the month under review, but unemployment is chronic, not just seasonal, in this region and there were still three applicants for every vacancy on file.

In Quebec there were 25,000 unplaced applicants and 27,000 unfilled jobs. Industrial activity was at a peak peacetime level.

In Ontario, there were 27,000 unplaced applicants and 4,000 unfilled vacancies Aug. 14. Most industries were boosting production to the limit of available materials and labor.

THE PRAIRIES had 14,000 unplaced applicants Aug. 14 compared with 10,000 unfilled vacancies. This highly seasonal region is approaching its yearly peak.

Despite weather which has affected crop prospects, there is still a great demand for Eastern harvesters, since for year men will be needed in all three provinces instead of being transferred from one to another as the harvest progresses.

Requests will be greater and the season much shorter than in a normal year.

Coal miners were needed in Alberta. Firms in the building materials industry were operating capacity. Pulp and paper mills reported great activity and construction projects were straining the supply of materials and skilled workers in some areas.

IN THE PACIFIC region, there were 14,000 unplaced applicants and 7,000 unfilled vacancies. Seasonal expansion in primary industries was straining manpower resources.

The excellent state of labor-management relations has enabled most negotiations to be completed without work stoppages, and this has contributed greatly to the high level of general employment.

The mining industry was desperately in need of general employment. If several hundred hard-rock miners could be obtained, they would create jobs for many hundreds of unskilled men.

Current labor demand in the logging industry is heavy, since the possibility of fire hazard has passed. The industrial construction program is continuing to expand, absorbing more and more workers.

Residential building has declined. Skilled carpenters and trowel tradesmen are in short supply.

UNPLACED applicants and unfilled vacancies (in brackets) in western national employment service offices at Aug. 14 were:

Calgary, 1,588 (1,068); Edmonton, 1,024 (1,120); Regina, 514 (80); Saskatoon, 1,150 (594); Winnipeg, 5,352 (3,175); Port William, 349 (968); New Westminster, 1,066 (480); Vancouver, 8,590 (3,684); Victoria, 1,508 (350).

MAY RE-OPEN TALKS

Food Parcels to Britain

The new austerity regulations instituted by the government of Prime Minister Clement Attlee will shock Canadians just as much as they dismay the people of Britain.

For the economic situation in Britain is such that the British are now under rationing and privations far more rigid than those which obtained in the more difficult months of the war.

It is common knowledge that the new food rationing will try British endurance to the utmost. British medical men offer the opinion that the national health will suffer severely under the new regimen.

It will be the hope of most Canadians that the Canadian government will do everything within its power to lighten the current food load. Since, however, this is an age of United States dollars that precipitate the crisis, the Canadian government can do little about it.

One thing the Canadian government can do and should do without delay is to facilitate the flow of Canadian food parcels to the British Isles. These parcels are absolutely free of postage charges.

At present the postage on such parcels is out of all proportion to the value of such parcels. Frequently the postage costs more than the contents.

As a result, while thousands of Canadians do send such parcels, many more thousands find it beyond their financial ability to pay both for the food and the postage.

Not only should the postage on food parcels from Canada be entirely removed during the emergency, but the Canadian post office should continue to receive and carry parcels for general distribution and bearing no address.

It would be a simple matter to arrange with the British authorities for the distribution of these parcels to the most needy. In this way, Canadians who have no relatives or friends in England would be able to get their personal part towards relieving the appalling food shortage there.

Canadians waste thousands of tons of food monthly. It will be a shocking and humiliating national failure if everybody does co-operate in getting some of this surplus into the hands of those who face literal starvation.

Why Have Law?

About 10:45 Thursday morning, a truck through a red traffic light, with apparent deliberation, at the intersection of 100 street and Jasper avenue.

A passing pedestrian, who had jumped out of the truck's way by exercising considerable agility, approached a police constable who was standing within ten feet of the scene of the infraction and the following conversation ensued:

Constable: "Did you see that truck run over the red light?"

Constable: "Yeah."

Pedestrian: "Are you going to do anything about it?"

Constable: "Why should I run after him?"

Pedestrian: "Didn't you take his number?"

Constable: "Nah! Why should I? The summons would just be cancelled."

This conversation will impel Edmonton people to ask two or three pertinent questions:

1. If constables refuse to check infractions of the traffic law, is it any wonder that lawlessness in Edmonton is getting out of hand? For contempt of the law in particular breeds contempt of the law in all particulars.
2. If it is useless for constables, as this man implied, to swear out informations because summonses are cancelled, why is the doing the cancelling?
3. If the constables refuse to do their duty when motor car drivers are openly contemptuous of traffic laws, why should the Safety Council go to the expense and trouble of waging safety campaigns?
4. If law is not to be enforced, why should we have law at all?

Why do Edmonton taxpayers pay the salaries of police constables if many of them consider their job is done when they stand idly on corners and swing their gloves?

These are questions to which the police department should find convincing answers.

Just Propaganda

The National Council for Canadian-Soviet Friendship has written a lengthy epistle to the Canadian department of external affairs urging that Russian-Canadian relations be improved in a number of ways. To these suggestions the department has now made a reply pointing out that Canada has already done everything within reason along the lines indicated by the Canadian-Soviet Friendship group.

Most interesting is the discussion in the matter of what the Council is pleased to call "cultural exchanges." The Council apparently wishes to see a free flow of artistic matter between Canada and the Soviets.

The undersecretary of state for external affairs, Mr. L. B. Pearson, has replied that the Canadian government is doing everything to facilitate such a flow. The National Film Board, for instance, has supplied film stock to Russia and has aided in the showing of Soviet films in Canada. The National Gallery has shown many Russian paintings. The CBC has devoted time to news of Soviet cultural developments. The visits of Russian writers to Canada has been aided.

But, says Mr. Pearson, the Soviets do not appear to reciprocate. Nothing is done by the Russians to encourage a showing of Canadian art in Russia. On the contrary, everything is done to suppress and slander the conditions of Canadian life. In fact, the three Russian writers whose visit to this country was assisted by the Canadian government, went home and wrote the most bitter and unappreciative and lying articles about Canadians and the Canadian situation.

We might just as well face the fact that the Soviets' interest in Canada is a purely propaganda interest and the eagerness with which the National Council for Canadian-Soviet Friendship forwards the Russians' proposals is not only naive but dangerous.

The Council, however, is honest, and sincere it may be, is not playing an admirable part.

Make it a Gift

It is a very suggestive coincidence that alongside the story of Britain's new privations should appear the story that Canadians are getting down to sugar, and expect to use three more pounds of sugar apiece.

Thus, every family of at least two people will have six pounds of sugar that they did not count on having.

What could be more appropriate that at least six pounds of six pounds should go to friends in Britain?

If one were disposed to hold forth on such things, the coincidence could be said to be compelling. Indeed, there is a biblical text that appears to fit the case with some aptness.

"Freely as you have received, freely give."

The report that Hon. Wilfred Laurier, leader of the Liberal party, has endorsed the mooted commercial union with England, has been made the subject of many experiments, but the latest is probably the most ridiculous. Why some superstitious people believe in such things is difficult to say. Perhaps they are brass monkeys and would add to the effect of those musical riffs at Regina. Certainly, if they were, they would be useful in capturing illicit whiskey or in running down the adulterators.

Smiles

By DALE WARREN

In the cartoon, the man and woman are looking at a book. The man is saying, 'MAMA, CAN I WATCH MRS. SQUEAMISH MESS UP A COUPLE HANDS?' The woman is saying, 'MAMA, CAN I WATCH MRS. SQUEAMISH MESS UP A COUPLE HANDS?'.

It is a very suggestive coincidence that alongside the story of Britain's new privations should appear the story that Canadians are getting down to sugar, and expect to use three more pounds of sugar apiece.

Thus, every family of at least two people will have six pounds of sugar that they did not count on having.

What could be more appropriate that at least six pounds of six pounds should go to friends in Britain?

If one were disposed to hold forth on such things, the coincidence could be said to be compelling. Indeed, there is a biblical text that appears to fit the case with some aptness.

"Freely as you have received, freely give."

Twinkling Lady

By ELMORE PHILPOTT
They say that the most beautiful book ever written was "Robinson Crusoe".
The popularity of the idea — taken away from him — has given rise to many interesting questions.
One of these is: If your family was going to be stranded on a desert island and had to spend the rest of their lives there, and if you could take just one book with you, what book would you take?
A religious friend a bit envious of a well-known author's success, once asked me to select a book for him to take with him to a new home. I suggested "Robinson Crusoe".
He said: "I don't want to take a book that will make me feel like a prisoner. I want to take a book that will make me feel like a free man." I suggested "Robinson Crusoe".

Few Canadians Live Through Arts

WINNIPEG, Aug. 25. (CP)—Only four or five Canadian artists, out of a total of 100, are able to earn a living through selling their pictures in the Dominion, Herman Vanden of Toronto, president of the Canadian Arts Council, said here last night.

No Canadian dramatists live by the theatre, though a "small brilliant group" live by the radio, he added, in an address to art enthusiasts, and to composers live by composing.

Such a state of affairs Mr. Vanden described as a challenge to Canadians, suggesting among other means that the community centre idea could be widely embraced, providing buildings for orchestras and plays and thereby seeking to make Canadians more conscious of the talent in their midst.

Building of FM Stations Delayed

OTTAWA, Aug. 25. (CP)—CBC plans for the establishment of a frequency modulation radio broadcasting transmitter at Winnipeg and Vancouver are being held up by a shortage of equipment, Dr. Augustin Frigon, general manager of the CBC yesterday said.

Establishment of an FM transmitter at Vancouver could be undertaken as soon as equipment becomes available, but a number of matters would have to be cleared up before work could start in Winnipeg.

Dr. Frigon said plans for the building of the FM transmitters will be discussed at a meeting of the CBC's board of governors next month.

Possibly by that time the board will know what policy members of the American Federation of Musicians plan to adopt with respect to FM broadcasting in Canada.

Dr. Frigon said the CBC has not yet heard from the federation, but this has nothing to do with the building of the new FM transmitters.

"Green Moon" to End Jail Term for Owner

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 25. (AP)—A Philadelphia landlord accused of refusing to refund rent or charges to nine tenants was committed to prison yesterday for contempt of federal court. "You'll stay in prison until you comply with the order of the court," said Judge James McGowan, who ordered the landlord, Edward J. Weiner, ordered July 26 to refund overcharges to tenants and pay double damages to the government, totalling $3,000.

Immigrants Vex Housing Problems

TORONTO, Aug. 25. (CP)—The Toronto board of control is to seek an immediate conference with federal and provincial officials on district zoning problems which Mayor R. H. Saunders and Controller H. R. McCallum said yesterday had been aggravated by the recent arrival of groups of immigrants from Great Britain.

The board, by resolution, called for the conference to determine a "policy" on immigration and to ensure that immigrant families will not land on Toronto's doorstep.

Board members also discussed possibility of a meeting with heads of suburban municipalities to arrange temporary housing.

Over 100,000 immigrants arrived in Ontario under an immigration - by - sea scheme arranged by the provincial government. Some 4,000 British immigrants have arrived in Ontario under an immigration - by - sea scheme arranged by the provincial government. Dutch Deal

A ghost may be haunting the town, but it's not the one you think it is. It's the one who's been haunting the town since the day of the Canadian soap box derby. The town of Holland, including the Dutch Reformed church, is the scene of a ghostly encounter.

The ghost is a young man, who, after a long and hard day of work, was found dead in the street. The police are investigating the case, and the town is in a state of shock.

Another case in which the Sprague Drug Store, 101st Street, was entered and $23 in cash taken from the register early in the night, was reported to police Thursday.

1946, and suggested the 40-hour week be reached in two steps. The first step would be to reduce the working hours to 40 hours per week, and the second step would be to reduce the working hours to 35 hours per week.

Mr. Morris said the union workers have not received any wage increase in years. He said the union has been fighting for a wage increase for many years, but it has not been successful.

Executive officers of the local union stated, however, that they felt there was every hope of averting a strike.

REACTION of the recommendations of the board of arbitration dealing with the wage dispute between the City of Edmonton and the transit system's workers did not come until Thursday night.

George M. Morrison, international representative for the Street Railway Men's Union No. 569, said there was any branch of a union agreement on the question of the introduction of the 40-hour week for transit workers.

W. R. Engley, president, and A. E. Manly, secretary-treasurer of the union, told council members there was a misunderstanding in the 40-hour week question. They stated the union requested for 1946 was the inauguration of the 40-hour week. The commissioners informed the union executive that it would not be possible financially to introduce the 40-hour week in 1946.

ALSO, A. BISSETT, K.C., suggested that neither the commissioners nor the workers should prepare for a strike action. He said the most cordial relations always existed between the union and the city, and he believed that the workers should not prepare for a strike action.

Earlier in the meeting a new offer from the commissioners submitted to union members was placed before the aldermen. This offer was being considered by the workers and was not yet decided upon.

The offer provided that the hourly rate for all employees in the transit system for the year 1947 be raised six cents per hour, and on the assumption that the average cost-of-living index for Canada for 1947 will be 133, provided the union is prepared to enter into an agreement for the remainder of 1947 and all of 1948 with the understanding that if, on March 1, 1948, the Dominion cost-of-living index rises above 133 that the pay of all employees will be increased on a basis of $15 per annum for each point by which the March 1, 1948 index exceeds 133, retroactive to Jan. 1, 1948.

THE NEW OFFER by the commissioners will give the workers an amount approximately equal to...
